

HEALTHY BENEFITS INCLUDED FOR YOU AND YOUR FAMILY?

Protection policies aren't just there for when things go wrong. Many protection insurers include access to a range of health and wellbeing support services – and you don't need to claim to be able to use them.

These services can make everyday life that little bit easier. From knowing you can have immediate professional support if your child falls ill, to having the tools to keep tabs on your health, these services provide advice, assistance and information to keep you and your family healthy.

Which types of services could you get with your cover?

Here are some of the health and wellbeing services you could get with your policy. Please be aware that not all insurers include these, so it's well worth making sure you speak to your adviser to make sure you have the right cover in place for you and your family.

- Access to an online GP
- Nutrition consultants
- Mental health consultants
- Online physiotherapy
- Health MOTs
- Nurse healthlines
- Fitness apps
- Second medical opinion service
- Bereavement support
- Legal support

A few good reasons to use these health services:

- The majority of services are free
- You don't need to claim on your policy to use them and they can be used regardless of pre-existing conditions.
- They are easy to use and convenient
- Many of these services are available for you to book online at a date and time to suit you. They are also easily accessible, whether via an online consultation, an app, or a helpful professional on the end of the phone.
- They are provided by experts
- The support you receive is provided by medical and health experts.
- They are good for your health and wellbeing
- From serious illness to everyday healthcare support, fast access to expert advice and support can be included in your protection policy.*

Many customers have seen the benefits, for example, one of our insurers reported that in 2022, 99% of GP appointments were offered within 2 hours of a customer contacting them. They also saw the demand for these appointments increase by 126% from the previous year showing that wider emotional, health and family support services can really make a difference in people's lives.

With the NHS feeling pressure like never before, knowing your family's health is covered can give you extra peace of mind.

Here's one little thing you can do today, talk to an adviser from Bright Blue Wealth to discuss the healthy extras available for you and your family.

Health and wellbeing services can be discussed with your adviser when you're considering a protection policy. By looking at the needs of you and your family, we can help you get the right protection in place.
